WEST VALLEY WATER DISTRICT HOSTS EARTH DAY CELEBRATION

On Saturday, April 20, West Valley Water District (WVWD) welcomed the community for another successful Earth Day celebration at their district headquarters. The WVWD team held an open house to teach the community first-hand how each department plays a critical role in delivering our customers high quality and reliable water.

Join WVWD in Celebrating Water Awareness Month

During the month of May, West Valley Water District (WVWD) will be celebrating Water Awareness Month, an annual campaign to celebrate Earth's most precious resource. To kick off the month, WVWD is highlighting its most ambitious capital improvement project, the Oliver P. Roemer Expansion and Upgrade Project (Roemer Project). The Roemer Project is being implemented to replace aging infrastructure, meet rising peak summer demands, provide existing users with a reliable water supply, meet projected growth, and responsibly manage regional groundwater basins. To learn more about the Roemer Project, visit www.wvwd.org/roemer.

Follow us on social media all month to learn how you can join WVWD in celebrating and conserving water at home!

Celebrating the Winners of our Mascot Naming Contest

On April 18, West Valley Water District (WVWD) recognized Riley Mays and Abigail Soto for their role in helping name the district's new water drop mascots. After receiving over 200 submissions, the Board of Directors selected two winning names for the mascots, "Creek the Conservationist" and "Halle H2O". The recognition ceremony took place at Fitzgerald Elementary school and was attended by WVWD's Director Kelvin Moore, students, parents, local elected officials, and a special VIP visit from Creek himself. This event signifies a milestone in the district's ongoing commitment to educating our youngest water stewards about water conservation.

Be sure to say hello and take a pledge to being water smart the next time you see Creek or Halle in the community!
